Blake's Dream Home, also known as Blake's Island Dream Home, Blake's Island Home, Blake's Home, or Blake Home, is a home located on the northwestern area of the artificially-created island, West Island (also known as Wild West Island), located off the coast of Southern California, United States, being located almost 10 miles south of Haţeg Island (where Dylan's Island Dream Home is located), and is owned by Blake Hooton, aka PaintRubber38 on DeviantArt.

West Island

Geography

West Island's size is roughly 8,056 square miles (20,864 km2) or about twice the size of the island of Hawaii. West Island is located at least 200 kilometres (120 mi) from the nearest land mass of mainland California of the United States. Haţeg Island is surrounded by both the shallow sea and the deep marine basin, unlike some of the surrounding islands and land masses which are surrounded just by shallow seas.

Climate and ecology

The climate of West Island is mostly temperate, with an average temperature of 24–34 °C (75–94 °F), sometimes with significant heat waves. West Island has mild winters with very little rainfall, averaging between less than four inches annually to as high as 14 inches annually, depending on a region. The climate of Wild Island is characterized by a wide range of temperatures and weather patterns, influenced by geographical features such as mountains, valleys, and coastlines. The interior regions experience hot, dry deserts, Mediterranean climates, and forested environments, with temperatures decreasing northward. Coastal areas are moderated by the Pacific Ocean, and many coastal areas have swamps, marshes, and humid forests. All of these climatic zones played a crucial role in shaping the ecosystems, agriculture, and lifestyle of the people who live in Wild Island. The environments of West Island closely matches the environment from western and southwestern United States during the Wild West era, hence the island's name. Furthermore, the people, other than Blake Hooton, live in an Amish lifestyle matching the historical people who lived in the Wild West era, even having the similar, if not identical technologies and cultures.

Native and nonnative fauna

Most of the native and nonnative species of animals that inhabit West Island represent the Wild West era, in terms of biodiversity and culture; some formerly extinct species were brought to the island for further biodiversity. Although most species are from North America (Canada, United States, and Mexico), some species brought to the island are from other countries. The list of example terrestrial species shown below (pinnipeds, cetaceans, manatees, sea otters, sea turtles, invertebrates, and both marine and freshwater fish, which also live in and around West Island, are not included).

Main House

The main house is a massive 12,000 square foot home complete with six bedrooms and 7 bathrooms. There is plenty of Wild West-esque nature all around the house, including a vast semi-arid landscape, a 4-acre lake, a 5-foot waterfall, a gazebo, and a stone bridge. Inside the house, the beautiful wood details are seen throughout the kitchen, from the exposed beams in the ceiling to the cabinets and window frames. The house's inside is also inspired by nature, with beautiful hardwood floors and exposed brick in an eat-in kitchen. The house has infinite free Wi-Fi with excellent connection that does not require login or any password, and all of the would-be paid streaming services (such as Netflix, Hulu, Disney+, Peacock, etc) are available for free permanently, all of them with everything unlocked and with no ads (even YouTube has no ads in this home and the Underground Wonderland). The kitchen, brimming with cloned modern delicacies, comes free of charge, offering any cuisines, from fast food to gourmet dining, that generates instantly after ordering them; note that this feature is also available in the Underground Wonderland.

As means of the house's and Underground Wonderland's preservation and future survival, thus protecting it against flooding, fires, and more natural or artificial disasters, everything about both the house and the Underground Wonderland are made of completely resilient materials immune to fire, water, etc, thus preventing any inanimate objects from ever getting corrosion, rot, mold, short-circuiting, bent/dent, and so on. This ensures further enjoyment and comfort on everyone visiting or living in the house or the Underground Wonderland.

Underground Wonderland

Accessible by an elevator (or an automated stairway), the Underground Wonderland (the which consists of Blake's Dream Home's Underground Wonderland and Dylan's Dream Home's Underground Wonderland) is a massive underground and fully-indoors getaway, being larger than the entire New York City and with the height of over 500 feet (152.4 meters) tall (Dylan's Underground Wonderland is the same size and is directly connected, and altogether, both Underground Wonderlands are more than twice as large as the entire New York City), being located directly beneath the main house. Like the main house, the Underground Wonderland has infinitely free Wi-Fi with excellent connection and without any need to login, and all otherwise-paid streaming services (such as Netflix, Hulu, Disney+, Peacock, etc) are permanently available for free, all of them with everything unlocked and with no ads (even YouTube has no ads in this home and the Underground Wonderland). Due to the sheer scale of the Underground Wonderland, there are automated trams, an also-automated monorail, a Disneyland PeopleMover replica, and a traditiomal railroad (although the latter two are more for entertainment purposes).

As the Underground Wonderland is massive, it is filled with many restaurants (with self-serving and automatically-created foods and drinks), restrooms, some workout stations, a 5,550 square foot movie theater with a stage, a spacious and nature-filled indoor swimming pool (complete with a jacuzzi, a splash zone, and a water park), a safe weather simulation room, animatronic stage shows, an indoor playground, theme park rides and attractions (including otherwise-defunct ones and clones of current ones), arcades and game rooms (complete with PCs and gaming consoles), a bounce house, free-to-use vending machines (including both traditional vending machines and unique ones), a Broadway stage replica, and a massive duck pond, and many more.

The radio stations for Blake's Underground Wonderland are combinations of KZIS 10.79, V 101.1, and 98 Rock, and are played throughout all of Blake's own Underground Wonderland, except the Duck Pond (presumably to prevent the birds and turtles from getting stress), and has almost no commercials or global/national news (except sports).
